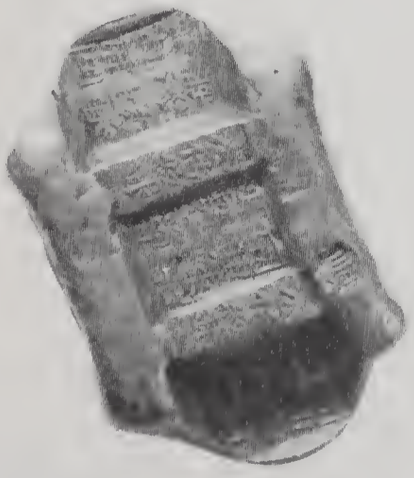
Odd and Curious Primitive Money



This unusual early currency known as Saddle Money was a common form of currency made into silver ingots which found its way over the Chinese borders into Burma and Siam. There are various inscriptions in Chinese on the ingots which include the name of the banking institution which issued these, and a phrase which indicates that they are first quality silver and genuine. They are negotiable for free circulation. This form of money has been very popular in Chinese history due to the fact that there were so many problems arising from currency during the early years. Ingots such as these held promise for security. We have a limited number of these saddle ingots, many with different markings. While they last just $47.50. A very good opportunity to acquire an excellent primitive form of money at just slightly over the bullion value. Most contain approximately 6 oz. of silver.

Order No. 8-355 – Saddle Money – $47.50

GREAT SILVER DOLLAR SALE

The Silver Dollar market continues to soar according to latest reports. The trend appears to be continued upward due to the shortage of the higher quality mint state coins. We have assembled groupings of coins about three months ago and list these below at prices which in many cases reflect old underpriced values. List alternates whenever possible.
